

1.1

dinsdag 12 november 2019 16:54

Such a feedback loop can be used to control the thrust of a rocket.

Reference signal: desired velocity

Measured error: difference between measured velocity and desired velocity

Measured/system output: measured velocity

? System input: digital signal representing velocity

Controller: ADC which changes the measured value into a digital signal on which calculations can be executed

Sensor: velocity sensor